Home Care Assistance of Ft. Lauderdale Supports Partnership with Stanford Center on Longevity

(Fort Lauderdale, FL – October 6, 2017) Home Care Assistance of Ft. Lauderdale, the area's leading agency for in-home senior care, is proud to support the partnership between Home Care Assistance and the Stanford Center on Longevity. The partnership helped promote the 10th Anniversary Symposium around the theme of “redesigning long life.” The symposium was held on September 21st at the Stanford Alumni Association.

“It’s incredible to be a part of an organization that partners with prominent organizations, scientists, and researchers in the field of longevity,” said Manpreet Dhalla, Owner and President of Home Care Assistance of Ft. Lauderdale. “Such partnerships that cultivate innovation and research are needed even more as our society continues to rapidly age.”

Founded in 2007, the Stanford Center on Longevity’s mission is to accelerate and implement scientific discoveries so that lives are healthy and rewarding. The day-long symposium covered recent advances in the biology of aging, and the implications on society.

With nearly 90 percent of those 65 and older preferring to live in the comfort of their own homes and communities as they age, Home Care Assistance of Ft. Lauderdale seeks to provide seniors with the highest quality care possible. As the only in-home care provider to offer an integrated, science-based approach to longevity, Home Care Assistance of Ft. Lauderdale is dedicated in serving older adults who would like to age at home.
